

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of enhancing modulation transfer function performance, applicable to a method of scanning an object using a scanner with a linear sensor. A smooth image digital data is obtained. The object is scanned in a forwarding direction and a direction perpendicular to the forwarding direction of the scanner. According to the smooth image digital data, the digital data of calculation pixel obtained by using the scanning to scan the object are processed.

5